SATURDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1900

Lipton is going to call his new challenger Shamrock II. That's all right—that is the way it will come in.

New York is to have the largest theater in the world. If the system of proportion is carried out they will have to send to Chicago for the footlights.

Provisional government have been established throughout China. This is probably to offset the famine that has been threatened as a result of the military operations.

The itinerary of the Prohibition stump speakers in New York has clashed with Bryan at almost every point. This looks like a preconceived attempt to throw cold water on his campaign.

Bryan objects to the continued Republican references to the full dinner pail. No wonder they jar him, for the wind sandwiches that he is offering to the workman instead make a poor substitute.

New York is going to construct a tunnel beneath East River. Although it will be claimed that the contractors are to do the work at "bedrock" rates the fact that Tammany officials are handling the job will make the people suspicious.

A shipment of 500,000 sovereigns is to be made from England to the United States next week. Although the balance of trade is now all our way they cannot accuse us of being shylocks and demanding our "pound of flesh"—we take ours in gold.

THE GOVERNOR AS A CAMPAIGNER.

California has not had occasion to import many stump speakers this campaign, for oratorical talent is plentiful here and when the State Central Committees of both parties announced that they were desirous of making up lists of speakers, so numerous were the applications from well-known and eloquent citizens of our own community that it was decided not to look elsewhere. The Republican party has been singularly favored in this regard, for among the volunteers were many of its most prominent representatives in official as well as business life, and its advocates have therefore been accorded a respectful and attentive hearing wherever they have appeared upon the platform.

Governor Gage, for example, has, since the campaign opened, been bending all his energies and sacrificing his personal convenience to the cause of securing votes for the Republican ticket, and his voice has been heard on the stump from one end of the State to the other. Outside of the good effect naturally created on an audience by the presence and appeals of the chief executive of the State, the able manner in which the Governor presents his arguments is the distinctive feature of his canvass. Before he entered active political life he was known at the bar as one of the most eloquent and forcible speakers in the professions, and since he has entered the field of campaigning he has equally distinguished himself in that sphere. He relies more upon the marshalling of facts than the mere painting of word pictures, and his addresses all bear the stamp of careful study, good judgment, logical conclusions and a wide knowledge of passing events.

In the southern part of the State a strong movement is already afoot to induce Governor Gage to stand for re-nomination two years hence, and similar voices are also heard throughout the central and northern sections. The able and business-like administration of the State's affairs during the past two years are the causes that have induced these early efforts in Governor Gage's behalf, for the reasons being advanced by the Republicans as to why McKinley should be retained in office are equally applicable in our own State from every standpoint involving our local welfare. Governor Gage has been loyal to the trusts reposed in him by the people, and has more than fulfilled every promise made by him or in his behalf during the campaign that brought about his installation in the executive mansion at Sacramento.

CALIFORNIA'S OPPORTUNITY.

The consular reports lately received from the west coast of South America again call attention to the great trade opportunities existing in these fields for American business houses and industries. This great and almost unexplored commercial territory at our very doors has seemingly been slighted by California merchants, who have had their attention drawn more to Asiatic fields and have overlooked that nearer at home which has been waiting to reward those who have the enterprise to seek it. We have already a considerable trade with Mexico and the Central American States, but not what it ought to be considering their proximity, while the coast further south has received but slight attention. The States of Colombia, Ecuador, Peru and Chile are growing countries. They are rapidly emerging from the stage of backwardness and now demand railroads, electric lighting, power, mills and so forth, nearly all of which work we can secure for the asking. England and Germany have not been idle, and while we have been casting our eyes across the ocean the big trade of the South American countries lying contiguous to our port has been seized and nurtured by the Teuton and Briton to our own financial loss. It is to be hoped that the Pacific Commercial Museum and the mercantile associations will arouse themselves into taking some action that will result in bringing this trade to California. When once the lines are laid and these peoples educated to know that we can serve them as well if not better than other nations, we can retain the trade against all comers. We must, however, study their wants, conform to their methods of business and induce such cordial relations as will establish good will and a feeling of confidence. We, in return, can offer a market for their natural products which would probably call into existence many new industries and thus by establishing reciprocal relations a trade would be built up that would be of mutual benefit. The late William T. Coleman declared that the west coast of South America offered unequalled opportunities to the enterprising and energetic and said that if he were a young man he would go there with the expectation of making a fortune quicker than in any other part of the globe. He, too, was a student of the conditions prevailing there, and with the progress now being made our business men are short sighted when they do not make some united and well planned move to secure for California the fruits of this great commercial field.

HANNA'S BUSINESS TALKS.

Senator Mark Hanna, who is now touring the Middle Northwest in behalf of the Republican ticket, does not mince matters nor cloud his addresses in the sophistries of fine words. He is plain spoken, blunt and to the point, and that is the kind of talk that carries conviction to the minds of his auditors. He does not profess to be an orator, but is a common sense, practical and successful business man who has worked himself up from the lowest round of the ladder.

One of the principal arguments he advances to the American people is the absurdity of jeopardizing our present and steadily improving prosperity, based upon the substantial methods of the Administration, for the mere promises and theories of Bryan, who has yet to demonstrate his ability as a leader of men. "What has Bryan ever done for the laboring and business interests of this country?" asks Senator Hanna, and he then shows that under the safe and conservative policy of President McKinley, by sound financing and the protecting hand of the tariff, the country has been lifted out of the slough of despond into which it was placed by Democratic tinkering and is now the most prosperous nation on the globe.

Senator Hanna declares that the election of Bryan would bring about financial havoc, for the Nebraska proposes radical measures and revolutionary policies that would frighten capital from every line of industry and throw countless thousands of laborers out of employment. "We can only follow in those safe and conservative lines of governmental policy which have always been adopted by the Republican party if we hope to progress and remain prosperous," says Hanna. "We cannot experiment with the Government, and those who have given the task their life-long study and effort are those who counsel a continuance of our present policy. Mr. Bryan, who has had no experience and has but lately appeared upon the stage, comes forward with a ready-made panacea for all our ills."

That is the kind of talk that strikes deep and impresses those who give any thought to national politics, and the Democratic press that at first was inclined to ridicule Hanna's appearance as a stump campaigner can now see that his business-like speeches and methods are more likely to get votes than the flowery metaphors and daintily-rounded sentences of the professional orator.

It is claimed that many of the so-called imperial edicts in China are mere forgeries. Those acquainted with the calligraphy of that country can realize what difficulties they must contend with in that line. A good sign painter ought to be able to turn the trick every time.

The United States is going to insist upon the open door in China. Everything seems to hinge upon that anyhow.

Crippled with Rheumatism
"One day I began to feel a slight pain in my hip and leg, and as the pain grew worse it extended to my foot. They revealed almost nothing, and the pain was dreadful. Finally my leg began to grow numb, and I could barely hobble about. One day when I had come down in the street I got to the steps and could go no further. Finally a passerby helped me into the street and I at once put myself in a doctor's care. Exercise was tried, but without relief; in fact the pain in my foot was so far gone that I scarcely felt the full force of the battery."
"One day Mrs. Kermann, a member of the family of the late Governor Kermann, of the city, told me about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and asked me to try them. I said I would and I said 'up my mind I would give them a fair trial, no I bought two boxes. In my opinion the majority of people are not willing to give a remedy a fair trial. I knew that two or three boxes would cure me as bad as I was, but I feared that I had bought more than was necessary. I began to feel great relief by the time I had used the first box, and by the time I had finished the seventh box I was cured. I had no more pain, swelling or numbness. I had more energy, and I was able to do my work as usual. I have recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to a great number of people for this reason. I am sure that anyone who is suffering with rheumatism will be cured if the pills are given a fair trial."

The Knife and Drugs are no longer factors in the treatment of diseases. They belong to another age, and today the up-to-date practitioner who is scientifically advanced in X-RAY applications in connection with Static and Parado Electric is a master of his art. CONSUMPTION is no longer a dread disease. The Medical Faculty of Paris, France, has now fully endorsed the latest cure for tuberculosis as specific and we have been using hundreds of cases successfully since the early part of this year. The treatment consists of transference of microbe-killing drugs by means of Static Electric Currents passed through the patient's chest and lungs. (See S. F. Chronicle, page 2, Sept. 3, 1900.) CANCER—it is now an accepted fact, and is positively eradicated by the application of the X RAY in combination with the above treatment. A trial will convince the most skeptical. We are curing at our Laboratory many cases daily.

D. E. COLLINS ON ROSTRUM.

Says Great Britain and United States Must Stand Together.

There was a large audience in Gier's Hall last evening to listen to the lecture given by D. Edward Collins.

Mr. Collins is a prominent member of Albion Lodge, Sons of St. George, and also of St. Andrew's Society. He recently returned from a visit to Great Britain. Mr. Collins said in part:

"The prejudice and irritation against the mother country engendered in 1770 have well nigh not altogether subsided. During my recent visit nowhere in Great Britain did I hear any word belittling our country. Only the kindest sentiments were heard about our country and people. Ever since this country received tangible evidence of sympathy from the Queen as we bowed our heads over the grave of Garfield the most cordial relations between the two countries have existed, and England has given a recent and more substantial evidence of her friendship in frustrating a possible coalition of European powers against us in the Spanish war."

"In its growth this Republic has come into direct contact with other countries. It has found in itself an instinct and genius for colonization common to the Anglo-Saxon race. By cession or conquest our territory now stretches from sea to sea. The closing century has broken our splendid isolation and our country has been drawn out of its self-containment to meet and measure itself with the great nations of the world."

"Whether it can cope with them or not in material prosperity, it can at least measure up to them in its notion of liberty, justice and equality of opportunity for the peoples of the world. It is this mission that will make expansion possible, profitable and permanent."

"The relations between the two countries can only be cordial. Offspring of the same race, speaking the same language, governed by similar laws, instructed with the same literature and science, energized with the same blood, and lifting up the same standards of civilization to the world, what more could be necessary for the recognition of the community of interests between the two countries? England and her colonies are largely the markets for our surplus products. Not only the industrial but financial interchanges are going on between the two countries which will more and more tend to connect them and bind them in an indissoluble union for good. The high standards of civilization of the Anglo-Saxon race has given it a prominent position in the world. That position for humanity's sake must be maintained."

It is expected that the clerks will be successful in their efforts by January 1st. The drygoods establishments now close at 6 p. m., except on Saturdays.
